

My Buttocks Hurt!!!!!!!!!!!!!!

march 2015

back to this again. Welcome back again. I decided to make a new issue of “My Buttocks hurt.” Hopefully this issue will bring you warmth. OK, it probably won’t, unless you a.) live here or b.) unless you burn it in your fireplace. But please don’t do that, this issue was years in the making.

bird of the month. this month’s bird is the American robin. Its scientific name is Turdus migratorius. But don’t call it turdus, because that wouldn’t be very nice. It is the state bird of three states. Connecticut, Michigan and Wisconsin. It eats beetle grubs, earthworms, caterpillars, fruits and berries. The robin symbolizes spring, which is why it’s this month’s bird. So we salute you, robin, for ushering us out of the cold (but not really cold this year) winter, and into spring. May your diet consist of bugs that I hate.

Anna graham crackers. hi. I want you to rearrange the letters in each of these sentences to a cereal name. I don’t know why I named this article anna graham crackers, though. The anna graham sounds like “Anagram”, but these aren’t crackers, they’re cereal names. Answers are up your butt.

- | | |
|----------------------------|--------------------|
| 1. CANNOT STAIN MUCH CORN. | 5. PALACE |
| 2. SUCK MY LARCH | INCOMPREHENSION |
| 3. STALKER OF FEDS | 6. SERF’S PUS FEE |
| 4. THEY HOUSE NICE RON | 7. STOOL PROOF |
| | 8. ANT NARC HICCUP |
| | 9. MAHOGANY HORSE |

Bird Is the Word. On Wheel of Fortune, the bonus puzzle answer was “BIRD.” When the contestant said Bird, “Surfin’ Bird” started playing and birds started flying around the set. OK, that’s not true.

♪ Why do birds fall down from the sky every time you walk by? Just like me they long to be close to yuuu. ♪

Awards. first we had the award of “driest, warmest winter.” Then it was the grammies, then it was the Oscars. Did you know that the Oscar was named after Oscar the Grouch, recipient of the very first Oscar? Yes, Oscar the Grouch played the part of the don in “The Godfather.” Most people think it was Marlon Brando, but he passed on the role right before filming began. So did Big Bird. OK, I’ll stop.

errata. We would like to point out several mistakes in the previous article. Grammmies should be capitalized. And no comma should be after it. And the first word of the article should have been capitalized also. Everything else is factually correct. Thank you.

T and A get your mind out of the gutter. I have made an entire one act play with the characters uttering words made only out of two letters: T and A. Here is the premiere of “Ata and Taa.”

(Driving down a Hawaiian highway, Ata notices some aa¹.)

ATA: “Aaa! Aa! (Aa touches her car.) AAA²!”

(Taa from AAA arrives.)

TAA: “Taa, at AAA.”

ATA: “Aa!”

(Taa rolls up his arm to reveal a tattoo.)

TAA: Aa at a tat.

ATA: At a tat, AAA? Aa! (points at the car.)

TAA: At Ata tata? (Taa reaches towards Ata’s boobs.)

ATA: Aaaa! Aa, AAA! At aa!

TAA: At aa? Aaa! Ta ta! (Taa leaves.)

ATA: Tata at AAA? At aa, AAA! (Taa comes back.)

TAA: At aa, AAA at aa.

ATA: At aa, AAA! (Taa fixes Ata's car.)

TAA: Ta ta!

ATA: Ta ta, AAA!

Le finis.

¹=aa is a rough, cindery lava. ²=American Automobile Association.